Subject policy on use of state aircraft

I was listening to Lieutenant Governor David Paterson talking on Fred's show this morning, about how he was told the use of state aircraft by state officials would be much more transparent under the Spitzer Administration, which certainly sounds like a good thing. I was wondering, though, was anybody given any rules on attending fundraisers while using the aircraft for state business? For instance, the governor attended a fundraiser that was for others (The Monroe County Democrats), not for himself. A distinction can be drawn there, but is that the actual policy? I'd also be curious to know if Senator Bruno was told before he used the state aircraft that he'd be subject to stricter scrutiny about the purpose of his trips. Any help would be appreciated.
